Editor's Column

Some residents remember the Mission enfolded by meadowland; carpets of tawny needles under tall pines along most of Carpenter Street; bracken tangles beneath oaks all over the Eighty Acres; waxen-belled manzanita, ceanothus and wild iris bordering San Carlos Street; untrampled verbena blooming on the beach; the Point a blaze of poppies.

These same residents realize how much of the original natural beauty of Carmel has been built upon or destroyed by wanton footsteps. So does the city council.

Carmel, on the other hand, has never been noted for the beauty of its municipal buildings or facilities. Past city councils have provided barely adequate quarters for the city's administrative staff and police force; somewhat better accommodations for the fire department. Carmel's tiny corporation yard is over-crowded and unlandscaped. And now these public facilities are deteriorating from age.

The city council realizes this, too.

Public lands the city now owns, except for the beach, Devendorf Plaza and the city hall and post office parking lots, lie unused, unequipped, and are inadequate for inevitable future needs.

This also, the city council realizes.

However, the city is becoming impoverished, and there are not now, or will be, capital outlay funds sufficient to remedy these situations without substantially raising the property tax or finding new sources of revenue.

The council realizes that the ever-increasing demands for municipal service expenditure, such as police and fire protection, for example, are caused mainly by large numbers of transient visitors.

These visitors contribute to city revenue substantially by means of the one percent city sales tax collected on all purchases by every Carmel retail merchant; also by means of the business license tax paid by the merchants, and levied according to the gross volume of their businesses. But the city council doubts that this revenue is in proportion to the impact of transient visitors on the total ever-rising cost of city government.

In addition, the council considers it unfair to property owners to increase property taxes for greenbelt acquisition or other capital outlay projects in view of what citizens now contribute to transient-caused, impoverishing expenditure.

Therefore, they have initiated an ordinance, to which they will give second reading, and probably adopt, on July 5. This is a new source of revenue.

This ordinance will provide city income by means of a three percent tax on all transient lodging accommodations; and the room tax funds will be divided equally, half for acquisition of greenbelt; half for capital outlay purposes including, possibly, more off-street parking for the business zone.

Representatives of the lodging industry have protested to the council about the room tax. They

Peter Ferrante Humorously Says That Although He Is This Year's Bach Festival Head, He Has No Ear

The Carmel man elected to steer the Bach Festival through its silver anniversary season this summer has been a key figure for many years in two great traditions of the Monterey Peninsula. In addition to the festival, Peter Ferrante has deep and lasting ties with the world-famous Monterey fishing industry, which is now only a memory, of course, but one which will certainly never die.

The trouble has always been, he says, though he loves music, he is deaf to tone and has never been able himself to sing or perform; and though his own early life paralleled the rise and fall of the sardine industry in which his family was involved, he himself proved a total loss as a fisherman. He becomes seasick at the slightest swell.

"My greatest musical accomplishment," Mr. Peter Ferrante says, "came one night at a concert when I turned to my wife and said, 'Harriet, isn't that Rossini they're playing?' And I was right!"

Although Peter Ferrante's musical cognizance is probably far better than his sense of humor allows him to admit, his position as head of Carmel's greatest musical tradition still points up an often-forgotten truth:

It requires the help of everyone in the community to bring success to a community cultural endeavor, the attorneys no less than the choristers, the merchants no less than the harpsichord players.

Mr. Ferrante's direct association with the festival began fifteen years ago when Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous, founders and private impresarios of the Bach Festival, first saw the need for incorporating the organization as a non-profit group in order to preserve it for the community and for posterity. He donated his services as legal advisor from that time. The incorporation became a reality five years ago.

"We spent two years just waiting for the Treasury Department ruling which now makes all contributions to the festival tax-ex-

Patients Moved Today By Ambulance To New Hospital

By supper time tonight, all 50 Community Hospital patients will be settled in their bedrooms in the new hospital building, according to the hospital's administrator, Tom Tonkin.

Starting immediately after lunch today, nine ambulances provided by the Army Hospital at Fort Ord, the Naval Air Facility Dispensary, and the A-1 Ambulance Company

Dances, Piano Solos, Archery This Sunday At Forest Theater

This Sunday afternoon's free program at the Forest Theater will include a variety of dance numbers, piano solos, also an archery exhibition and demonstration.

The dances will be presented by the Patricia Ramsey School of Dance. Marjorie Wurzmann of Carmel will be the piano soloist. A team of archers from the Monterey Peninsula Archers, Inc., will give an introduction to archery followed by an exhibition. Team members will be Dwight Bennett, Jean Allen and Don Morton.

The programs in the city-owned outdoor theater are sponsored by the Carmel Arts Commission, and start at 2:00 o'clock. There are two intermissions and members of the audience are free to come and go as they please during the two-hour entertainment.

Junior High Odds Good, School Tax Lower Next Year

Gambling on the chance that with the construction strike over Carmel Junior High School may yet be sufficiently completed to house classes by September 1, the school board last night decided to delay a decision on alternative plans in order to wait and see.

And the odds look fairly good.

Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield, after talks with general contractors Daniels and House yesterday, said, "I hope that the action started again this morning will mean that we won't require the use of any alternate plans.

"There is a possibility of having classrooms ready by the first of September. The size of the crews may be increased or the amount of time the crews work. The home art rooms would be completed first because they need the greatest amount of cabinet work, then the rooms adjacent to the library, leaving the gym until last."

Greenfield said there is also a possibility that the district might require a short-range housing plan, perhaps just until Thanksgiving, if unforeseen additional delays occur.

The talk last night left the immediate future of the district's historic Sunset School still somewhat murky, except for reference to Sunset as possible housing for seventh and eighth grades (with ninth grade at the high school) if a short-term solution becomes

In a letter, Willard Neumann, yesterday afternoon, informed the planning commission that a suit is pending in Superior Court over the city's refusal to reclassify his Forest Lodge property now in the residence zone. The triangular piece of land fronts on Ocean Avenue between Mountain View and Torres Streets.

Mr. Neumann has sought rezoning of his property since 1957.

Picnics, Fireworks On Beach, Carmel's July 4 Celebrations

Independence Day in Carmel, as always, will not be observed officially, but in the evening hundreds of residents and visitors will take picnic suppers to the beach. After sunset, fireworks will be set off.

The beach is the only place where fireworks are allowed. Each year the annual Fourth of July display continues a tradition established many years ago. Grandchildren and even great-grandchildren of early residents now dance around the bonfires, delighted by stars shooting from sparklers held in small hands. Fathers set off fountains, rockets and other elaborate fireworks. Smoke from picnic fires and the fireworks drifts above the beach. Every so often the deep boom of a "cannon" is heard.

The characteristic Carmel celebration of the national holiday may be observed from the beachside cliffs by persons who do not wish to join groups celebrating on the sand.

Planners Ponder How To Secure Private Beach For Public

The problem of how to secure beach frontage owned by William Crawford on the north city boundary for public use was the concern of the Carmel Planning Commission yesterday afternoon.

No action was taken on Mr. Crawford's request for a use permit to subdivide his dune land into four building sites. The commission, instead, asked its secretary, Larry Rose, to write to Mr. Crawford requesting a topographical curvey of his property in order that commissioners may discover means most acceptable to Mr. Crawford for retaining public use of his beach frontage which lies between Del Monte Properties' beach and city-owned Carmel Beach.

The letter will also state "the sense of the commission" that city council recommendations for the large-lot proposed subdivision are "acceptable to the commission."

The council recommended a maximum of six sites with protective setbacks and easements for the property, with permanent access over a 20-foot wide surfaced private road for which the city would assume no responsibility; also a water main and fire hydrant be installed.

In a progress report to the council last month, the commission suggested that the city consider acquiring the Crawford property as greenbelt.

Yesterday they pondered whether scenic or passage easements might be devices for retaining this part of the beach for the public, also dedication of the beach by the owner for park purposes.

PILOT MARKET STILL UNDEFEATED IN L. L. PLAY

League Standings, Second Half

	Won	Lost
Pilot Market	5	0
Boys' Town	4	1
P. A. Macs	2	2
Wilder & Jones	2	3
Turner & McEldowney	1	4
Sport Shop	0	4

Running its victory string to 13 straight, Art Carpenter's Pilot Market little leaguers took over undisputed first place in the second half title chase as they clipped Newt Goodrich's Boys' Town gang, 6 to 0, in this week's feature tilt. In order to complete a perfect season, the grocers must get over Wilder & Jones in tonight's game and then handle P. A. Macs in next Thursday's clash.

The grocers played errorless ball in notching the win over Boys' Town, turning in one of their best games of the season. Sparked by the fine clutch hitting of Jim Baldwin and Steve Mason plus the steady pitching of Terry Mosolf and Scott Lemons, Pilot salted the game away in the fourth heat as four runs crossed the plate. In dealing the shutout to the clothiers, Mosolf and Lemons allowed four hits between them, catcher Gary Newton helping himself to three of the blows. Jim Baldwin, Pilot shortstop, played outstanding ball in the field for the winners and ran his consecutive hitting string to seven straight hits in seven trips to the plate. When Pilot's veteran catcher, Jeff Wickham, was sent to the pits with an injured hand, rookie Doug Miller donned the backstop tools and did a noble job of holding the swift slants of Lemons and Mosolf. Jack Campbell and John Jacoby shared the pitching chores for Boys' Town, allowing the grocers nine hits over the five-inning route.

Lee McGuckin's P. A. Macs squad came up with another win at the expense of Jack Cate's Wilder & Jones crew. The Macs, who finished in the cellar in the first half, are showing a hot hand at the present time and are a threat to any team in the league. John Clancy and Chris Laiolo collaborated to pitch a five-hitter against the plumbers as the insurance gang posted a 5-2 win over Cate's squad. In a big third inning, the Macs crossed the plate four times as Tony Klepich provided the big punch to drive in two of the runs. The W & J team came back with a two-run rally of its own in the third heat, but couldn't muster enough power to overcome the Macs lead. John Kimbark, with two-for-three, was the top hitter for the losers.

Wilder & Jones bounced back from the loss to P. A. Macs by blanking Turner & McEldowney, 11 to 0, in Tuesday's action. John Kimbark threw a two-hitter at the bricklayers as his mates clubbed Brian McEldowney and Rod Martin for six blows, including a double by Rich Calcagno. The plumbers batted around the lineup in the second heat, scoring seven runs on seven free passes and two hits. Jim Grey and Rod Baldwin were the only T & M swingers to hit safely off the slants of Kimbark.

Regular play in the Carmel Little League winds up next week, but the Carmel Pony League will move to the Little League Park for its second half play. Tonight's L L slate has Pilot Market going against Wilder & Jones; Friday night, it's Sport Shop and Boys' Town; Turner & McEldowney take on P. A. Macs on Monday evening; Boys' Town and Wilder & Jones cross bats Tuesday night; Wednesday, July 4, is a bye date; Thursday, July 5, P. A. Macs tries Pilot Market; and the season finale has Turner & McEldowney going against Gerald Artellan's Sport Shop on Friday, July 6.

RAZZLE DAZZLE PLAYOFFS

The Carmel Little League Farm Division will hold a razzle-dazzle playoff between the top four teams starting this Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

These extra games will give some of the boys an opportunity to play a little more baseball and have a chance to upset the top team, Surf 'n Sand.

It will be a great chance for parents and friends of Little League to see these farm teams in action. These boys would love to have a large crowd watching them play ball.

The first game will pit Derek Rayne against Village Inn at 10:00 o'clock. Surf 'n Sand, the champions of the farm system with seven wins and no defeats, will play the Rockets at 12:30.

SURF 'N SAND WINS FARM LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Final League Standings

	Won	Lost
Surf 'n Sand	7	0
Rockets	5	2
Derek Rayne	4	3
Village Inn	4	3
Carmel Plaza	3	4
Mission Ranch	2	5
American Legion	2	5
Rocky Point	1	6

The hard-hitting Surf 'n Sand nine, skippered by Don Wilkinson and Frank Bucher, powered its way through the Farm League of the Carmel Little League without tasting defeat, and with plenty of margin to spare in every game. With five players in the starting lineup hitting over 500, the Surf 'n Sand crew scored better than 20 runs in every game, with some of the games going for only three innings. Top sticker on the club was Pete Vincent who hit .693, including one round-tripper out of the park. Following Pete with big averages were John Jensen, .570; Jimmie Schaeffler, .570; Wade Rose, .560, and Ray Miller, .550.

John Goodwin was a workhorse in the pitching department, hurling all the victories for the champs. Rounding out the championship squad were Mark Czirbin, Phil Goulding, Kelly Steele, Jimmie Brown, Harry Goulding, Charles Wisdom, Mark Eccher, David Goldman, and Jock Whitney.

Wade Rose and John Jensen are the only twelve-year-olds on the squad, so Little League managers can look forward to some spirited bidding when the auction for players is held next season.

CARMEL VALLEY TOPS CARMEL PONY LEAGUE

Taking advantage of all the breaks and getting some excellent help from the Navy Juniors, the Carmel Valley Broncos have taken over leadership in the Carmel Pony League as the teams head down to the wire in the first half. The Broncos won a big one when they upset Bob Baugh's high flying Cardinals and got plenty of help from the Navy Juniors when the sailors upset both the Cards and Jack Miller's Toy Shop Braves. Howard Baxter and Bill Woolsey's Jade Tree Giants also got into the upset act by trimming Builders Sup-

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

A report on the playing of Owen Dunsford, leader of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, at a recent meeting of the Symphony Guild, through an omission by this writer did not get printed. He is one of the best artists in this locality. Hearing him as a soloist for the first time, his exceptional beauty of tone and interpretations greatly impressed me and his entire audience. It is to be hoped Mr. Dunsford will soon give a violin recital so more persons may hear him. His musical sensitivity appeals where technical brilliancy alone cannot, and he deserves the recognition from all local concert goers.

The American Composers' Alliance, which sends bulletins from New York, has an editorial on the fact that all signs point today to a "vital operatic renaissance." There are, too, accounts of successful American operas led by Nausicaa, the Greek theme developed operatically by Peggy Granville-Hicks who has received the homage of the musical world for her production in Athens. Greece, this Spring. Here then, is appreciation of creative women musicians. Formerly credit and opportunity has gone almost to men only. Musical America reported the occasion was also the first time in history of a new European music festival premiering an American opera, and probably the first time that an American composer wrote, cast, rehearsed and launched her own work."

There is also an account of Henry Cowell who formerly lived in Carmel. He is regarded as one of America's outstanding composers especially for his introduction of "chord clusters," on which I heard him experiment years ago on Dene Denny's piano! Cowell was here last summer for one of the workshops at Asilomar of the National Symphony League which returns again this weekend for a three weeks' assembly of composers, conductors and players.

Musical Opens At Studio Theatre Tomorrow Evening

The Studio Theatre's fifth summer musical season will open tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock with Where's Charley? Adapted by Frank Loesser and George Abbott from Brandon Thomas's famed comedy, Charley's Aunt, this first offering of the Studio's current season will alternate weekly with Jean and Walter Kerr's Goldilocks which will open on July 20.

Where's Charley?, under the direction of Ben Small, and produced by Betty Hackett and Royden Martin, will have Cliff Berry in the title role of Charley Wykeham. The part of Jack Chesney, Charley's roommate, will be played by Bill St. John, grandson of novelist Adela Rogers St. John.

The young ladies smitten with Charley and Jack are Penny Karas playing Amy, and Barbara Nunn as Kitty. Alan Haller will play Sir Francis Chesney opposite Mildred Cushing's portrayal of Charley's aunt, Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez. Director Ben Small will join his cast in the role of Mr. Spettigue.

Hilary Teague, Elaine Herrmann, Nick Peters and John Sullivan round out the cast. The musical direction as well as accompaniment has been furnished by Gary Carver in his fifth season with The Studio.

Where's Charley? will play nightly except Monday at 8:30.

HOLY COMMUNION AT BIG SUR SUNDAY

The Holy Communion will be celebrated at Santa Lucia Chapel, Big Sur, next Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The site of the service is the Episcopal church property at River Village. The celebration will be conducted by the rector of the sponsoring parish, All Saints' in Carmel. He is the Reverend David Hill.

Bach-Mozart Players To Give Concerts At Tassajara Springs

Musicians from the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra will give a series of informal concerts at Tassajara Springs this week end, according to Anna and Bob Beck who now operate the Carmel Valley spa opened in 1880.

Cantatas, sonatas, trios and quartets by Bach, Telemann, Vivaldi, Pergolesi and Mozart will be played outdoors at various locations at 4:30 o'clock Saturday and Sunday afternoons by Everett O'Bannon and Michael Guring, violinists; Elizabeth Bell, violist; Nancy O'Bannon, cellist; Raymond Duste, oboist; Margaret Fabrizio, harpsichordist; and Ray Fabrizio, flutist. In addition, Carol Bogard, soprano, will sing Bach's Wedding Cantata.

The outdoor concerts will be given with the audience sitting around small tables, cabaret style, as in a European park. The group of musicians call themselves the Bach to Mozart Players.

The Becks recommend that persons who plan to come to the Music at Tassajara concerts should telephone the resort (Tassajara Springs No. 1) if they plan to have meals or stay overnight. There are only a few accommodations still available for the week end, but the Becks emphasize persons may come to hear the music and have lunch or dinner, or both.

The musicians will rehearse outdoors in the mornings and early afternoons, and visitors to the hot springs will be able to hear these rehearsals.

Mrs. Beck says the harrow wilderness valley between high mountains "will be filled with music almost all week end."

Professionals Lead Romp Through Threepenny Opera At Wharf Theatre

The Threepenny Opera opened at the Wharf Theatre last Friday evening with a cast of nationally-known professional actors augmented by local players, and will continue to run through July 14.

Heading the professionals is June Havoc who has the part of Jenny, a discarded lover of the hero, Mack the Knife, played by Virgil Curry who acted this part in New York for six years. The other professionals are William Roerick as Mr. J. J. Peachum, who controls all of the beggars in London; Ruth Crews as his wife; and Jean Palmerton, their winsome daughter.

Headed by this group, the other 18 players romped through the stage classic by Kurt Weill and Berthold Brecht, translated by Marc Blitzstein. Director-producer Robert Carson and musical director Forest Durland have created an auspicious beginning for the Wharf's current summer season with The Threepenny Opera.

The production, a strange potpourri of opera, musical comedy and social drama is set in London at the time of Queen Victoria's coronation.

William Roerick's Peachum is a remarkable interpretation of the unscrupulous ruler of the beggars. Every moment he is on stage is a delight.

Ruth Crews's Mrs. Peachum excellently complements his humor, singing and acting. Jean Palmerton's voice and appearance are a joy to hear and see as she defies her parents and seeks her true love, Macheath.

This latter part, played and sung by Virgil Curry, tall, lithe and handsome, brings a flutter to female hearts, as it's meant to, witnesses his many loyal, but deserted, loves in the play.

June Havoc interpretes a lady of the night with control and pathos.

The supporting cast is worthy of the professionals. Everyone sings, dances and acts with gusto framed by the colorful sets on the revolving stage which eliminates waits between scenes.

The costumes by Jean Miller and Seija Larsen, even though of necessity they must be mostly beggars' rags and tatters, are outstanding.

Local players in the cast include Flemen Hardy, Bob Floeter, Jacques Denbeaux, Hank Robb, Barbara Ziegweid, Holt Wood, Elroy Naczek, Joe Broadman, Jack D'Angelo, Patsy McKnight, Yuvawn St. Clair, Gwin Taylor, Dave Dunstone, Anne Nelson, Joan King, Joan Friedrichs.

Choreographer is Dale Lefler. Thomas Coble and Ron Robertson assist William Lewis with sets and lighting. Technical assistants are Patty Lewis, Prudi Johnson, Bill Brackeen, Pat Gambell and Paul Holden. Production co-ordinator is Charmion St. John.

claim it is discriminatory, particularly in view of the property taxes they pay.

But all residential and business property is similarly taxed.

Next year's city revenue from the retail merchants' sales tax collections and business license taxes is expected to be, respectively, $170,000 and $16,250.

Until now, operators of lodgings have paid only a business license fee of $5.00 per unit per year. Last year the city received $4,105 from this revenue source. Next year, from the room tax, the city hopes to gross $52,000, and operators of transient lodgings will not be required to pay a business license tax.

Considering what residential and business property owners contribute in taxes; what retail merchants contribute in business license and sales taxes; there appears to be no discrimination against the lodging industry in the room tax ordinance.

The city council, in developing this new source of revenue to bolster the city's faltering economy, is acting with foresight and fairness.

An industry which depends entirely on transients should not continue to burden the community, but should contribute additional funds to retain a little of the original beauty of the city, also maintain its public facilities, now in a state of neglect or disrepair. Secondly, the lodging industry should share with residential and commercial property owners this responsibility. Thirdly, face what retail merchants have for years.

The lodging industry's whole future depends on Carmel keeping its character and an attractive business community. As long as Carmel's character and superior shopping district remains, we don't think any transient is going to "go over the hill" because there is a 45 cent tax on a $15.00 overnight lodging.

And from follow-the-leader rumbles emanating from neighboring city councils, it appears as though it won't be long before transient accommodations in other Peninsula cities will be taxed similarly to those in Carmel.

We applaud the fearless leadership of Carmel's city council!

—Marjory Lloyd.

On Sunday Dr. Gray Starts 16th Year

His sixteenth year as minister of the Church of the Wayfarer will begin for Dr. K. Fillmore Gray at this Sunday morning's services at 9:30 and 11:00 o'clock. His first Sunday at the church was on June 29, 1947, to which he had come at the invitation of the congregation and by appointment of Bishop James Chamberlain Baker. In succeeding years he has been appointed by Bishop Donald Harvey Tippett of the San Francisco Area of the Methodist Church.

The years have been marked by purchase of land, construction of major buildings, and tremendous growth of the work of the church. More than 1200 members have been received into the church during these years, and the world outreach of the church greatly increased.

Carmel Adult School Summer Sessions Start On Monday

On Monday the 1962 Carmel Adult School will start a six-week session with particular emphasis on art. A tuition fee of $3.00 will be charged which will entitle a student to enroll in as many courses as desired. Courses to be offered include: color and design, life drawing, outdoor painting, portraiture, sewing, pottery, machine woodworking, writing for publication, and summer symphony orchestra.

Students register when they attend their first class. The summer session is open not only to local residents, but also summer visitors.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning the Carmel Adult School, MA 4-1714 Monday through Thursdays from 8:00 o'clock until noon, and from 7:00-9:00 o'clock in the evening.

White Oaks Version Of Little Red Riding Hood Has Many Surprises

An afternoon of lupine leaping and delightful patter from the realistic-looking jaws of a pair of wolves, combined with some properly demure and quivery behavior from Red Riding Hood, her mother and grandmother, got the White Oaks Summer Theatre's production for children off to a promising season last Saturday.

A houseful—or perhaps barnful, since the White Oaks stage is in a converted Carmel Valley barn—of youngsters, all ages, shrieked and giggled their appreciation of Miss Riding Hood's trials, adapted for the stage by Charlotte B. Chortenning.

In the Chortenning play, a game of wits and a set of farcial situations replaces the less complicated story line of the nursery books. Even the character of the wolf is developed to three dimensions (at least!).

Anyone, young or old, who decides not to see Riding Hood because he knows the story already couldn't be more wrong. Plenty of surprises pop up in this version.

In the cast of The Fantasy Players are Laddy Kratky as Riding Hood, Maria Anderson as the mother, Mary Sue Tatum as the grandmother, Hazel Green as the older wolf, Jonathan Hugger as the wolf who hides in grandmother's bed, Roger Gentry as Nicholas, and Phil Lottman as the other woodman. Particularly striking were the sets by Jack Rauch.

Little Red Riding Hood will play this Saturday at 2:30 o'clock at the Stilwell School, Fort Ord, and will move to Carmel's Forest Theater on July 7 for 10:30 and 1:30 o'clock benefit performances for the Carmel Elementary Parent - Teachers Association. After benefit performances for other schools in the county on succeeding Saturdays, it will return to White Oaks on July 28 and September 1.

'Inchling Is Carmel!', Says Former Forest God In Letter From England

The Chairman of the Watch of Nottingham, England, a city of 350,000 residents, is envious of Carmelites because this summer they will have the opportunity to see a production of Inchling at the Forest Theater.

Elliott Manery "Metz" Durham, says if he had known about the August performances of the children's play in time he would have traveled the 8,000 miles between his present and former homes to see the Ira Remsen fantasy again . . . and it was only last August that he made this long trip.

At that time he had recently been been re-elected an alderman of the Nottingham City Council, on which he had already served for 12 years, and had turned down an invitation to run for Lord Mayor of Nottingham because he was returning to visit Carmel, where he had lived from 1924-32.

This is what Mr. Durham wrote the Pine Cone, this week, about the forthcoming Inchling production:

"I was thrilled to read in your issue of May 24 that Inchling again is to be produced at the Forest Theater. It recalled the production many years ago directed by Irene Alexander. I remember it so well, in fact I played a part in it. Not a very important role, not even a walking on part; I was simply a voice from the forest, that of the Forest God.

"I went to the dress rehearsal prepared to be bored. On the contrary, I was absolutely enchanted. I felt with Inchling his desire to fly. I sympathized deeply with Lightning Bug in his very difficult courtship with Lady Bug. I marveled at the longest worm ever seen on stage or screen.

"The costumes of Rhoda Johnson were marvelous. What a terriffic job she took on!

"As I sat in the Forest Theater one night a year ago, supposedly watching a rehearsal of Tobacco Road, I seemed to see only the ghosts of the many excellent players who walked those same boards in the 'twenties.'

"Yes! by all means stage Inchling. It is Carmel at its most Carmelish. Repeat it, say every two years! Make it a permanent Carmel institution!

"Given enough notice, I will be prepared to travel the 8,000 miles to Carmel on purpose to see and hear Inchling again."

Yours sincerely,
Elliot Durham (Metz).

During the years Mr. Durham lived in Carmel, he had a hardware business on Ocean Avenue. After moving to England, he was a consultant to light industry in London, then managing director of a food and pharmaceutical firm in Nottingham until he retired in 1950.

All through World War II the Durham's country estate with a castle near Nottingham was open to all Carmel servicemen stationed or visiting in England.

Last summer he explained that his title, Chairman of the Watch, is the ancient title for the police commissioner of the City of Nottingham.

How the Christ, Truth, brings freedom from sickness and sin will be brought out at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Christian Science" will contain this verse from Jeremiah (17: "Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise."

A correlative citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 142) "Truth is God's remedy for error of every kind, and Truth destroys only what is untrue. Hence the fact that, today, as yesterday, Christ casts out evils and heals the sick."

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

We have two new books especially for the ladies, and because we remember the old adage about women and children being first, we will proceed at once to these two books. The first is entitled The Single Woman, Her Adjustment to Life and Love. This book, written by Dr. Laura Hutton, seeks to fill the hiatus caused by lack of information upon the problems of women of 40 and older. Much has been written about the problems of married people, but little about those of single persons. The problems discussed are those of women who have always been single, and those who have returned to the single state through divorce or the death of a companion.

A Woman's Guide To Earning A Good Living is by Elmer Winter. Even the book jacket claims for this book "complete and authoritative answers" on such questions as 1) How can I find the job I'm best fitted for? 2) How can I land the job I want? 3) Is any age too old to learn? According to the author the employers of the nation look to the reserve of women, especially those over 45 and under 24 to fill the shortage in the work force caused by the low birth rate during the depressed Thirties. Borrow the book and read it. Then choose your field and start to make those first important steps toward employment.

Weston LaBarre is a professor of anthropology at Duke University. His recent book is on the subject of certain religious cults who accept literally the Biblical statements regarding the handling of serpents. They use snake handling as a test of religious faith. Dr. LaBarre's book is entitled They Shall Take Up Serpents, and is illustrated with photographs of snake-handling religionists in the southeastern part of the country.

Ken Kraft is a card holding member of our library and as such we are happy to announce that we have a copy of his new book Give Father A Hard Knock. It's very funny, and what's more, it's wholesome, and we recommend it to every last one of you. We have a copy coming from the county to help out with the demand.

And speaking of funny, we have another one this week. This one is by Alan King whose monologues on television are vastly entertaining. His book is entitled Anybody Who Owns His Own Home Deserves It. If you have viewed him on TV, some of the material here may have a familiar ring, but all of it is hilariously funny. Never downgrade a good laugh!

This is an off season for fiction, with us, that is. Three or four mysteries came slipping in, but that's about all. One is The Man Who Looked Death in the Face, by Stein. The nice thing about a mystery is that you can read it and forget it, but while you are reading it your mind is darting in and out of solutions at a great rate. Sort of fun!

SUMMER SESSION FILM PROGRAM AT MPC

The History of the Cinema, a special summer session film program at Monterey Peninsula College, opened last night in the Little Theater on campus, and will continue each Wednesday hereafter through August 1.

The program, featuring screenings of outstanding feature films and shorts, will be conducted like a class, with students receiving study materials, reference lists and periodic invitations to special screenings outside of regular class time.

Jack Benson is conducting the course, which carries an enrollment fee of $5.00.

The second feature, The Wind, stars Lillian Gish in one of her most brilliant roles. This film, due to the holiday, is slated for two showings, July 4 and 5.

Rene Clair's Le Million will be shown July 11; the Nazi propaganda film, Triumph of Will, July 18; Intruder in the Dust, billed as the best Faulkner on film, July 25; Jean Cocteau's Orphee August 1.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

IN CALIFORNIA, Leland Stanford, the founder of Stanford University, was inaugurated as the eighth governor of California. Throughout the state, folks toasted the event with foaming steins of beer.

For then as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation—light, sparkling refreshment that adds a touch of hospitality to any occasion. Californians have always enjoyed the good fellowship that goes with every glass.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

A TOAST TO THE PAST—A SALUTE TO THE FUTURE

UNITED STATES BREWERS ASSOCIATION, INC

On July 1 in Prado Su Vecino, a new adventure in neighborliness begins. Under the sponsorship of The Carmel Foundation, a shop, Craft Fair, operated by and for members of the Monterey Peninsula Senior Craftsmen group, opens its doors.

Above, right, August Nieto holds the bottom of a sign for the new shop; Barker Bates the top. Mrs. Paul Rockey helps them on the other side while Mrs. Keith S. Messent happily directs their efforts.

The Carmel Foundation, a non-profit community service dedicated to helping senior men and women, has since 1958 encouraged and sponsored, with the cooperation of the Soroptimists and the Lions Club of Carmel, the Monterey Peninsula Senior Craftsmen in this group's endeavor to market crafts. In 1958 and 1959 there were week-long sales at Su Vecino. Then for two years the Party Carousel handled most sales. Early this Spring this business expanded to such an extent that there was no more room for the craftsmen's work.

Now, with help from August Nieto, owner of Prado Su Vecino, and the backing of the Carmel Foundation, the senior craftsmen are able to have a shop of their own where they can market their work with the maximum return to them.

There will be no paid staff. The participating craftsmen will take turns selling, as they will share all other responsibilities and expenses.

An acceptance committee, chosen by the craftsmen, passes on all articles before they go to the shop, and each craftsman has a vote on all policies and decisions.

Mrs. Paul Rockey is president of the new venture. She is stitchery instructor at Town House, the Pacific Grove senior center, and at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center. She will have complete charge of shop decor and arrangement.

Dr. Paula Tobias, treasurer, though not a participating craftsman, is giving her time and effort to further the cause. She is also active in the Puppets of Carmel and the Carmel Crafts Guild.

Mrs. Anna Kenefick, an active member of the Pacific Grove Senior Center, is secretary and in charge of shop inventory. Mrs. Keith S. Messent, assistant director of the Carmel Foundation, is in charge of the volunteer schedule. Mrs. Gladys McCloud, who is on the board of directors of the Foundation, acts as advisor to the Monterey Peninsula Senior Craftsmen's organization.

Another factor which has made the shop a practical possibility is that half of the space will be rented and run by Barker Bates, designer of decorator plastics. Mr. Bates, who is on the board of the Carmel Crafts Guild, is a master craftsman himself, but will be completely independent and cooperate only by acting as salesman for the senior craftsmen when he is in the shop alone; and on-duty craftsmen will sell for him when he is out of the shop.

In true Carmel tradition, this is a project where all participating retain complete individuality and identity, and yet all cooperate with the backing of the community.

KPFA Benefit Party Saturday

Saturday afternoon and evening, beginning at 4:00 o'clock, a party to benefit the anti-deficit drive of Berkeley's non-commercial subscription radio station, KPFA, will be held in the garden and patio of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Doner's home on Corona Road in the Carmel Highlands.

Food, including cheeses and homemade bread, coffee and other refreshments, will be served. Entertainment will include songs by a nationally known folk singer; music by classical and flamenco guitarists, John Thompson and Tony Weaver; and readings by Big Sur poet, Eric Barker. Contributors of paintings and other art items for an auction and raffle during the evening include Carmel and Big Sur artists Margaret Wentworth, Eve Miller, Harry Dick Ross, Cyril Brown, Gordon and Emilia Newell, Richard Lofton, Joseph Fay, Ephraim Doner, Paco Ferro, Pat Carey and Arch Garner.

Those interested in attending the benefit party should come dressed for the outdoors, although plenty of patio fires will provide warmth throughout the afternoon and evening. Any contributions toward the cost of the food will be welcome.

In charge of arranging the party are Margaret Grundig, Don Ottman, James B. Campbell, and Ephraim Doner.

Party At Palo Corona

Stuyvesant Fish entertained last Thursday evening at his home, Palo Corona Ranch, with a cocktail party in honor of his aunt, Miss Mary Hoyt Wiborg of Paris, who is visiting him at present, also for Mrs. Henry T. Rathbun (Sheila Moore) of Chevy Chase, Maryland, who is spending two months in Carmel. Mr. Rathbun will join his wife and three children for the last month of their stay here.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Jennison Heaton honored the visitors with a cocktail party at their Pebble Beach home.

Captain Hanger Floats A Bridge

Army Reserve Captain Bruce B. Hanger, who makes his home in Carmel with his parents, Colonel and Mrs. Bruce B. Hanger, Jr., is currently commanding Company C of the 820th Engineer Construction Battalion during the reservists' two weeks active duty training at Camp Roberts.

Within 48 hours of their arrival, Captain Hanger's unit had floated an M4T6 bridge, which can support the heaviest Army vehicle. This feat was observed by one of the seven regional experts whose headquarters are at the Memphis General Depot, known as the bridge depot of army operations.

"There must be some body of water near Camp Roberts which can float a pontoon bridge at this time of year," mused Captain Hanger's father when asked if he knew where the operation took place.

Ewings Return To Pennsylvania

After six and a half years in Carmel, the Reverend Joseph W. Ewing and Mrs. Ewing, are returning to Philadelphia, their former home. They will leave tomorrow by car, driving directly to Paoli, a Philadelphia suburb, where they will make their home. Dr. Ewing, who has been minister of the Carmel Presbyterian Church since November, 1955, will on September 1 take up his new duties as executive secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Pensions.

Before coming to Carmel, the Ewings lived in Santa Barbara for 12 years, and Dr. Ewing was minister of the First Presbyterian Church in that city. During their years in Carmel, Mrs. Ewing has been active in church affairs and with the Carmel Woman's Club. "We shall miss Carmel," she says.

Bake Sale For UN Fund Drive

Planned to coincide with the current United Nations fund drive in the San Francisco Bay area, a bake sale will be held tomorrow at the Carmel Valley Safeway store from 10:00 o'clock in the morning until 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. Proceeds of the sale, which is sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Women For Peace, will benefit the health and hunger fund of the United Nations.

Neills Back From West Indies

Outward bound on a British liner, the Orsova, and home on a Norwegian freighter, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton B. Neill, recently returned to Carmel after a five-week trip through the Panama Canal to Kingston, Jamaica, with visits by air to other islands in the British West Indies, to Curacao, and the French islands of Martinique and Guadaloupe. Main objectives of the voyage, besides relaxation on board ship, were, for Mr. Neill, observing airports and water filtration plants; for Mrs. Neill, finding objects for their Carmel store.

Mr. Neill was interested in the water distillation plant on Curacao, whereby sea water is rendered drinkable for the island's entire population. He also reports that he was much impressed by the health program "for every individual" which is in operation on Jamaica, soon to gain its independence from the British West Indies Federation, and that on the same island "you never saw so many fresh vegetables in your life."

The Neills also visited Barbados, Trinidad and Antigua, before their return through the canal. "The Canal was really the highlight of the whole trip," comments Mr. Neill.

Sherrie Leaves For London

Sherrie Nix left last week for London. She will continue her education in Europe, majoring in drama and ballet. The talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Nix graduated this month from Santa Catalina School for Girls.

Ferrante Humorously Says He's This Year's Bach Head, Has No Ear

empt," he said. "This has been true for contributions last year and this year, and will be true for contributions made in future years."

The talk of contributions reminded the attorney, whose law office is in Monterey, of another aspect of community support for such things as the Bach Festival.

"There is a myth about the festival that's been in circulation for years. The story goes that the Bach Festival is making lots of money and everyone connected with it is living off the fat of the land.

"The truth is something else. The festival donates housing for all performers and pays their travel expenses from the California border, along with a per diem amount for meals. When 100 guest musicians and singers are participating, this means quite an expense.

"Add to this that Sunset Auditorium is limited in seating, and though houses are always 'sold out' and publicized this way, still ticket sales alone cannot cover the growing expenses.

"There have been losses year after year in the past. These were absorbed mostly by the Denny-Watrous partnership. In recent years we have had some help from private contributions — a total of $4,000 last year. Many people do not know this, but it is no secret that we need all the support we can get."

With festival season nearing — dates this year are July 20-29 — most Carmelites already know that help can be given not only in the form of cash but as donated housing and assistance direct to performers.

(Such offers should be cleared with the festival office in the Bach Festival Building, east side of San Carlos Street near Seventh Avenue, P.O. Box 503, telephone MAyfair 4-1521.)

Peter J. Ferrante's own colorful linkage with Monterey history began May 14, 1914, when as an 11-year-old boy he came with his family to make a new home near waters reported to be teeming with commercially valuable fish.

His father, Arasimo (Sicilian translation of Erasmus) Ferrante, had been a successful commercial fisherman and boat owner at Pittsburg, California, prior to the Monterey move.

Here the senior Ferrante combined talents with his first cousin, Peter Ferrante, founder of the San Carlos Canning Company. (This Peter Ferrante was the grandfather of Monterey attorney Peter Coniglio, now also a member of the law firm of Hudson, Martin, Ferrante and Street.)

"It was the most exciting place in the world in the old days," the present Peter Ferrante recalls. "There is nothing to equal the sight of a hundred big fishing boats heading into the bay at dawn in the days when an average overnight catch was 5,000 tons, and 19 canneries were operating at once. In those days we even liked the smell of the sardines. It meant excitement and busy times for us all."

His brother Bruce represented their generation on the boats, considering what a poor sailor he himself was, Peter says. After graduating from Monterey Union High School, he earned his law degree at Stanford University, and for years was counsel and legal representative for the industry in Monterey, until 1945, when the capricious little silver fish disappeared, some say forever.

In addition to his long service to the fishing business and to the festival, Mr. Ferrante has been active in the Carmel Music Society for a quarter of a century, and also helped organize the Monterey County Symphony.

But Mr. Ferrante has not confined his community activities only to the Bach Festival and the Carmel Music Society. He served for ten years on the Carmel Unified School District's board of education. He has given time to the Monterey County Heart Association and the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross. He also incorporated the Bing Crosby Fund which administers money for charity raised by the annual Crosby golf tournament on the Peninsula.

He has many relatives on the Peninsula. ("In the old days every boat needed seven or eight men to a crew, so each family sent for relatives from Sicily.") Besides Mrs. Ferrante, there are two daughters in the attorney's immediate family, Mrs. Anne Pickett, now of Montreal, Canada, and Mrs. Alice Dew of Del Rey Oaks. The Ferrante family home is in Hatton Fields.

Pictured, above, as they drove away from their wedding at All Saints' Episcopal Church on Saturday afternoon are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hurst. The bride is the former Elizabeth Lord Coleman, the daughter of Mrs. Louise Coleman of Carmel. Her husband, the son of Mrs. Mary Hurst of Alton, Illinois, who came West for the wedding, is a student at the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School.

Betsy and Mickey, as they are known to their friends, were married in a 2:00 o'clock nuptial holy communion service celebrated by the Reverend David Hill. Soft light shining through the stained glass window in the chancel, blended with candlelight to gleam on two bronze bowls filled with white flowers placed at either side of the altar as the bride was escorted up the aisle by her twin brother, William Coleman, a student at the University of Colorado, who gave his sister in marriage.

Betsy's gown of English tulle was appliqued with chantilly lace on the skirt and three-quarter length sleeves. Her silk illusion veil fell in two waist-length tiers from a sequin and seed pearl coronet. She carried a cascade of white elf roses mingled with stephanotis.

Mrs. Don Rowe, Betsy's matron of honor, and the three bridesmaids, Penny Nielsen, Dianne Whelan and Laylon Theis, were dressed alike in pastel blue taffeta sheaths under white lace, with bouffant white tulle overskirts. Their headdresses were half-inch blue bands with bows in front, above short circular veils. They carried bouquets of pale pink and white roses.

Bill Pullem, a classmate of Mickey's at the Naval Postgraduate School, was best man. The ushers were Troy Roughbaugh of Monterey, and Don Rowe and Tony Schaurer of Carmel.

The bride's mother wore a green and white dress under a yellow coat and a black hat. Mrs. Hurst's gown was beige, with matching accessories.

The young couple received about 125 relatives and friends in the garden of the bride's mother's home on Randall Way, where the terrace was banked with white petunias and yellow marigolds. Inside the house were arrangements of gladioli and snapdragons in hues of white, pink and blue. Guests admired the wedding cake, decorated with pink icing roses, on the bride's table in the dining room, and toasted the young couple in champagne.

Betsy wore a beige coat dress with matching bag and shoes, also a hat of rust-brown leaves, when she and Mickey left for a Southern California honeymoon. They will make their home in Carmel.

Mickey, who studied at the University of Illinois for a year before attending the Naval Postgraduate School, is an electronics technician with two more years' Navy service.

Betsy, a member of the class of 1961 at Carmel High School, has been a student at Monterey Peninsula College this year, majoring in art.

Among the out of town friends and relatives in Carmel for the wedding included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Charles B. Cleveland of Los Gatos; Mrs. Coleman's aunt, Mrs. Charles Thirlkeld; Mrs. Corydon Jones of Saratoga, Miss Kate Thomas of Fresno.

Gay Back From Girls State

Impressive ceremonies which included lighting the Lamps of the Future, symbolizing Justice, Freedom, Democracy and Loyalty, concluded this year's Girls State sessions on Monday at the University of California at Davis.

Gay Beauchamp was Carmel High School delegate to the 19th Girls State. She was sponsored by the Carmel Legion Auxiliary. During the sessions she was named youth authority director by Sally Garay, Girls State governor. Gay's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beauchamp.

Giarratanas At Stanford

When Neil Giarratana graduated from Stanford University on June 10, his family came to honor him on the occasion. Spending the week end on the campus were Professor and Mrs. Joseph Giarratana of Carmel, and Neil's sister, Pat, a student at the University of California in Berkeley.

They were on hand for class day exercises Saturday, as well as the president's reception, and on Sunday baccalaureate and commencement programs.

"But immediately after the commencement," Mrs. Giarratana reported, "we had to leave with only minutes to get Pat to her plane for Los Angeles. We had only just time to walk across the greensward." Pat's quick trip south was preparatory to her entering the University of California at Los Angeles for special classes this summer. She will return to Berkeley in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clay Wightman are seen, above, in the garden of the bridegroom's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker Morse, on Casanova street, following the young couple's marriage on June 16 in the Carmel Presbyterian Church with the Reverend Joseph M. Ewing officiating.

The former Marlen Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Sears Brooks of Barnstable, Massachusetts, was given in marriage by a family friend, Robert McGinnis of Carmel, since her father was unable to come West for the wedding. Her white peau de soie gown was topped with a square-necked lace bolero jacket, and her fingertip illusion veil was held by a Dior rose. Her bouquet was an arrangement of white roses and stephanotis.

Virginia Johnson of San Francisco, Marlen's only attendant, wore an apricot chiffon sheath dress with a matching headdress, and carried carnations tinted the same shade.

Michael Mosolf of Carmel was best man, and ushers were George's two brothers, Kenneth Wightman of San Jose, and John Morse, Jr., of Carmel.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brooks wore a beige silk dress and matching jacket with jade hat and shoes. The bridegroom's mother chose a silk floral print with pink overtones, and pink accessories.

Sheaves of white gladioli, stock and carnations decorated the Morses' home for the reception at which guests toasted Marlen and George and watched them cut their wedding cake.

When the young couple left for a honeymoon trip to Santa Barbara, Marlen was wearing a yellow silk sheath dress and jacket with black accessories.

The young couple will live in San Francisco, and George will continue his studies at San Francisco State College from which he was graduated this month. He is also a graduate of Carmel High School. Marlen received her schooling in Massachusetts.

Here for the wedding from Massachusetts with Mrs. Brooks was the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Mitchell, of Newton Lower Falls.

Three Boys, Two Girls

Babies were born to five local families recently in Community Hospital, including three boys and two girls.

Richard Brent is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Gunter Querfurth of Carmel for their son born May 25.

On May 29, a son, Rodney John, was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. John Anderson, 40 Hitchcock Canyon, Carmel Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grant became parents of a daughter, Catherine Regina, on June 4. They live in Carmel.

Also parents of a girl are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wald, whose daughter, Kerry Joe, arrived at the hospital on June 5.

The following day, June 6, a son, Lane Alexander, became a new member of the Donald Murphy family. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy live at 45 Sycamore Place.

Girl Scouts Camp in Pine Valley

Killing a young rattlesnake, listening to coyotes' serenades at night, and playing charades around the campfire after the evening chores were done, were highlights of a recent pack trip into the Los Padres National Forest taken by 10 Peninsula Girl Scouts accompanied by Mrs. Richard Lofton and Mrs. Harold Aldrich of Carmel. Also on the trip was John Nicholsen of Carmel Valley, who was in charge of the string of six pack animals—four burros and two hinnies.

Setting out from Los Padres Dam, the group walked ten miles the first day, and spent the first two nights at Hiding's Camp. The third day, according to Mrs. Aldrich, they packed "five and a half rough, tough miles into beautiful Pine Valley," where they camped for three days. The fifth day, a ten-mile hike took the expedition to Carmel River Camp; the next day they returned to the dam, where cars were waiting to transport the campers home.

Apart from a few minor misadventures, including a burro's going over the side of the trail, and having to be unpacked and repacked before further progress could be made; also a couple of bruised knees and one or two cases of poison oak, the trip was "a wonderful experience for us all."

The ten Girl Scout campers were Pam Guy, Barbara Cowen, Missy Lofton, Jean Galloway, Patricia Duran, Laureen and Charleen Higgins, Betty Bouldry, Leslie Palmer and Patty Doubeck.

Dr. Oberfohren

Dr. Robert John Oberfohren of Carmel died Tuesday in a local hospital after an illness of three weeks. He was 75 and had been a resident of Carmel for the past nine years.

He was born in Muehlheim-Ruhr, Germany, on March 4, 1887, and came to the United States in 1915.

Dr. Oberfohren made his home in New York City for a number of years, coming in July, 1953, to make his home in Carmel, where his son, John Ruster, was a resident. He and his wife, Elsie, made their home at Camino Real and Twelfth.

One of the founding members of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, Dr. Oberfohren for eight years served as clerk and elder.

In addition to his wife and son, Dr. Oberfohren leaves six grandchildren: Michael, Peter and Heidi Ruster; Mari Pat, Frank and John Palmer; and a daughter-in-law, Amy Ruster.

Memorial services were to be held at 4:00 o'clock today at the Carmel Presbyterian Church, with Dr. Joseph E. Ewing officiating at the rites for his old friend as one of his final official duties before leaving the local parish tomorrow for a new church position in Philadelphia.

Inurnment took place yesterday in the Urn Garden, El Carmelo Cemetery. The Paul Mortuary has been in charge of arrangements.

Dr. Oberfohren, whose interest in all forms of research and knowledge was of life-long duration, had requested his eyes be left to the Stanford University Eye Bank.

Contributions memorializing him may be made by friends and acquaintances to the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Floyd Smith

Floyd Theodore Smith of Carmel died last night in a local hospital.

Born July 19, 1897, in Mabel, Missouri, he moved as a youngster to Waterloo, Iowa, and from there to Delano, California, at the age of 13. He and his wife, Lydia, who survives him, moved to the Peninsula in 1936, living first in Pacific Grove and Monterey, and since 1939 in Carmel. They made their home on Santa Fe Street between Second and Third Avenues.

Mr. Smith was the owner of Vining's Meat Market in Carmel, a business he operated for ten years. He was a member of the Church of Religious Science, Monterey.

In addition to his wife, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. William Rissel of Pebble Beach; two brothers, Leon of San Fernando, and Edward Smith of Inglewood; two sisters, Mrs. Delbert Harris of Armine, California, and Mrs. A. Freeman of Santa Monica; his stepmother, Mrs. Minnie Smith of Los Angeles, and three grandchildren.

Services are pending at the Paul Mortuary.

Emily Pitkin

Miss Emily Pitkin, who spent almost half of her 82 years as a resident of Carmel Highlands and was known for her interest in art and music, died yesterday morning in a local hospital. She had been ill for only a brief time.

A native of Oak Park, Illinois, where she was born March 13, 1880, Miss Pitkin resided in Oak Park prior to moving to the Highlands some 40 years ago. She was an alumna of Wellesley College and an active member of the Monterey County Wellesley Club, the Carmel Music Society, the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters, the Carmel Foundation, the Carmel Art Association of which she was an associate member, and other organizations.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Malcolm W. Wallace of Toronto, Canada, and Mrs. Horace M. Poynter of Philadelphia; two nephews, Dr. William Wallace of Toronto, and Horace M. Poynter of Andover, Massachusetts; two nieces, Dr. Elizabeth Wallace, also of Toronto, Miss Emily R. Poynter of Philadelphia; three grand-nieces, Phillipa Wallace, Nancy Varney Poynter, and Betsy Pitkin Poynter; and two grand-nephews, Malcolm B. Wallace and Alexander Wallace.

According to the Paul Mortuary, which is in charge of local arrangements, inurnment will take place in Forest Home Cemetery, Cicero County, Illinois. Contributions memorializing Miss Pitkin may be made to the Carmel Foundation, P. O. Box 3434, Carmel.

Mrs. Fouratt

Requiem Mass was celebrated yesterday for Mrs. Josephine L. Fouratt, a resident of Carmel for the past five years and the daughter of a pioneer California family.

Mrs. Fouratt, mother of Carmel realtor Enos F. Fouratt, died Saturday in a local hospital after a short illness. She was 81.

She was born in San Francisco on January 4, 1881, the daughter of Julius and Augusta Ritzau Wrede. Her husband, who preceded her in death in 1944, was a river boat captain on the Sacramento River, following a family tradition originating in 1850 when his own father, who had come to California during the gold rush, became a steam schooner pilot on the Sacramento.

Mrs. Fouratt had made her home in the Serra Apartments on Mission Street since moving here from San Francisco.

In addition to her son, she leaves a sister, Mrs. Claire Looney of San Francisco, and many nephews and nieces.

Burial in the Catholic section of Mission Memorial Park followed the Mass held at Carmel Mission Basilica.

May Smith

Mrs. May Dell Smith, mother of Mrs. Bernice Jackson of Carmel, died last Friday at her daughter's home. She was 95 years old.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Paul Mortuary Chapel, Pacific Grove, with Dr. Joseph M. Ewing of the Carmel Presbyterian Church officiating.

A native of Sloan, Iowa, Mrs. Smith had been living in Carmel and in Gilroy. She was a member of Absit Invidia Rebekah Lodge Number 11 of Oakland.

In addition to Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Smith leaves two other daughters, Florence M. Smith of Gilroy, and Mrs. Helen M. Kisling of San Lorenzo, and three sons, Sheridan of Portland, Oregon, Chauncey D. of Ventura, and Theodore W. Smith of Armona. Also surviving are six grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Burial in Monterey City Cemetery followed the services.

THIS LITTLE HOUSE needs a fireplace. It already has a large living room with a bay window and a fine spot for a Danish fireplace. It's a typical little Carmel doll house in a picturesque garden, close to the village and the beach. $17,500, and very reasonable terms.

AN AUSTRIAN CHALET with a fireplace in the middle of the comfortable living room which also features a cathedral ceiling and paneled walls. Serve your guests from the quary tile counters of the Butler's pantry the food you've prepared in the charming, efficient and very modern kitchen. A master suite plus a guest bedroom and bath at the other end of the house, a sunny South patio, a prestige location, a fair price of $35,000. A delightful original home to please you and your guests for years to come. Don't miss seeing it.

PICTURESQUE CARMEL RAMBLER near the beach on Carmel Point. 4 bedrooms, 4 bathrooms, 2 living rooms, 2 kitchens, an old-fashioned garden. A fine home for a family interested in charm and unconventional character, or a really good investment for rentals, or combine the two. The best tenant in the world would like to remain in part of the property, if you're interested, ask for our brochure.

36 FT. LIVING ROOM and a skylighted studio plus 2 bedrooms and 2 baths on a 90x125 ft. completely fenced lot. Handsome Norman architecture, and the vaulted living room ceiling is one of the prettiest in Carmel. $37,000.

INVEST OR SPECULATE: 4 apartments and 125 ft. C-1 frontage to build on located in fast growing P. G. shopping center. Nothing to compare on the whole Peninsula. Price $54,000 with excellent terms. Don't wait; call Lois Renk right now.

EVERYONE ASKS US, "IS THE MARKET SLOW?" Not if (1) you have a valid reason to sell your property; (2) your price is in line with current market values; and (3) your property is adequately advertised and properly presented to prospects who are qualified to buy it. If you must sell, we'd like to help you on all three points. No obligation, of course.

FRESH AS NEW PAINT CAN MAKE IT! A cozy cottage in a rustic setting within easy walking distance from Ocean Avenue. Livingroom with fireplace and colorful view of miniature enclosed patio garden; single bedroom accommodates twin beds. Some furnishings included in price of $18,000.

HOME WITH A VIEW! In immaculate condition, this well-built and attractive residence will make a most favorable impression with its choice one-acre site in Rancho Rio Vista, its livingroom with beamed ceiling and panoramic view of the hills and ocean, its master bedroom with dressingroom closet, its paneled den-bedroom, two baths, functional tiled kitchen with built-in units and breakfast corner, its partially-covered patio for outdoor enjoyment, and its super-sized garage with storage units and laundry facilities. Other desirable features include large paved parking areas and special fencing.

ON CARMEL POINT: #1. A choice building site with inspiring view of the Carmel Valley Hills. #2. A ranch-type residence with sunny-all-day enclosed center patio, a large livingroom with open ceiling and wood paneling, two bedrooms and two baths, and kitchen with range and refrigerator included. Heavy shake roof and central heating are additional features that make this property a good value at $37,500. #3. Contemporary-type two-bedroom home with warm southeast exposure from livingroom, dining-area, and master bedroom. Cheerful decor, large closets, 1½ baths, and minimum-care garden make this home suitable for full-time or part-time occupancy.

Also on the brighter side last night, and somewhat less of a gamble than decisions about the new school, was the board's adoption of the district's $1,895,494 preliminary budget for 1962-63.

The budget, a public hearing on which was set for 7:30 o'clock, August 1, in the Arthur Holman Music Building, will call for a probable operating tax rate of $2.37, the figures presented last night showed. This year's operating tax rate was $2.35.

Although the estimated operating tax rate will get a two-cent boost, the bond tax will drop next year, lowering the total tax rate for the district from this year's $3.27-$3.53 to an estimated $3.19-$3.45.

In the balanced set of figures presented by Greenfield, next year's income of $1,895,494 reflected a rise of $19,522 over income estimated previously, due primarily to an increase in secured roll taxes from $1,115,116 to $1,128,825. Estimated income from Public Law 874 (reimbursement for children of military personnel) went up from $45,000 to $49,000 and from Public Law 864 (National Defense Education Act) from $1,608 to $5,000.

However, additional expenses at the end of the fiscal year lowered the anticipated net ending balance from this year's $315,548 to $309,469.

In an accompanying comparative study of Carmel's operating tax rate with those of similar districts "with reputedly superior educational programs," Carmel came out second lowest, with only Beverly Hills lower at $1.49. (This compares with Carmel's $2.37 figure.)

The school board last night heard and approved in part, contingent on conditions at the new school, plans presented by Carmel High Principal Warren Edwards calling for starting school 15 minutes later, dropping the present seven-day period in favor of a six-period day with an elective seventh, operating a single lunch period.

Children visiting Carmel through August 10 and 11, and local children, may try out for parts tomorrow afternoon at the Forest Theater for Inchling, the children's play being produced under the Carmel Unified School District's summer recreation program.

First tryouts were held yesterday afternoon, and Mrs. Richard Lofton, Inchling director, says there are still some parts not assigned. Any child living in the Carmel school district, eight to 18 years old, may take part in the fantasy which has a cast of 50. This summer's performance will be the fourth Inchling production in 40 years at the city's outdoor theater.

MEMBERSHIP MEETING

On July 2 a meeting of the general membership will be held at the Carmel Art Association Galleries at 7:30 o'clock. All members are urged to attend.

A new show will open at the gallery on July 4. Harold Landaker is chairman of the hanging committee.

Dr. Gilman Installed As Lions President In Special Ceremony

Dr. James Gilman was installed as president of the Carmel Lions Club at a special installation meeting and ladies' night program Tuesday evening at Rancho Del Monte in Carmel Valley. He succeeds George Dear, who has served as president of the Lions for the past 18 months and who was lauded for his work and service by installing officer and Lions International counsellor, Dr. William Coughlin.

Serving with Dr. Gilman during the coming year will be Allan Champe, first vice president; Walter Boyle, second vice president; Leland Sears, secretary; Harold Willis, treasurer; Andrew Kuchta, tail twister; Michael Balazs, lion tamer.

Kenneth Fuller and Ernest Bixler were installed as directors. They will serve with holdover directors Tony Vasconcellos and Ernest Lunt.

Mr. Balazs also presented attendance awards at the ceremonial dinner meeting. Achievement awards were made by Ted Fehring.
